Exhibit A

The figure consists of a large grid of approximately 100 columns by 100 rows. It features several distinct patterns of horizontal bars. In the top-left area, there are several long magenta bars. To the right of these, there are numerous shorter black bars of varying widths. Some of these black bars are grouped together, creating larger horizontal segments. In the middle section of the grid, there are more magenta bars, some of which are very long. These are interspersed with black bars. The bottom section of the grid contains mostly black bars, with a few magenta ones appearing in the far left column. The overall effect is a complex, abstract pattern of horizontal lines.
